must forgive, but disloyalty to father or mother, sister or brother, is the act of a traitor and should be despised as such. If those who belong to us have faults, let us hide them in our hearts that the world will not find them out. If misfortung comes to the one member of the family, let all share it and help the unfortunate one to keep a proud foce to the world. Let us be true to our own. Loyalty in friendship has been the theme of poets, but loyalty to the home and household a multitude of faults and tollies.

Sorrow came to fou yesterday and mptied your bome. Your first impulse now is to give up and sit down in despair amid the wrecksof your Buy you dare not do it. You are in the line of battle and the Is at hand. To falter a mont would be to imperil some holy nterest. Other lives would be harm- tures: ed by your pausing. Holy interest would suffer should your hands be folded. You must not linger, even to indulge in your grief. Sorrows are but incidents in life and must not interrupt us. We must leave them behind while we press on to the things that are before. Then God has so ordered, that in pressing on in duty we shall find the truest, noblest comfort for ourselves. Sitting down to brood over our sorrows, the darkness deepened, creeps into our heart and our strength changes to weakness. But, if we turn away from the gloom and take up the duties and tasks to which God calls us, the light will come again and we will grow.

Business For Girls.

According to the recent census, it appears that there are nearly a third more females in this country than males; so of course there are not husbands enough to supply the demand. Under this state of affairs be the home. A place of rest and there is nothing left for the girls to do but to change their tactics; love and joy. BUCHANAN.

I have written these lines, dear Sister Burns, with the comforting your sorrowing hurt, which was made to cloud by the death of your affectionate husband, M. D. L. Burns:

Weep not for me, dear loving wife, For I am safe at home; No sorrow here, no care, no strife To make me weep and mourn.

It was hard to take my leave of thee My heart was knit to thine; But Jesus bid my soul to flee From earth to this bright clime.

His loving call I have obeyed, I feel 'tis well I've come. Then oh; do not the Lord upbraid For what He's wisely done,

His every work is done full well.

No defects in his plans,

Then wait in silence till he tells Thee of His purpose grand.

He'll make it plain, thou need not fear.

Will read it clear ere long, For thou to him art sweet and dear, Fear not, in faith be strong.

Don't think thy work on earth is done. If so He'd call thee home, Work on, pray on, till death shall

And claim thee for his own

Oh, do not weep for me, dear ones, But live for God alone, And when thy work on earth is don He'll bring thee safely home.

And when thou comest to this shore I'll meet thee, I assure, And welcome thee forever more To heaven where all is nure.

Then o'er this peaceful realm we'll roam

Wth pleasure and delight, No sorrows here to make us mourn No clouds of gloom and night. MRS. MARY BERRY.
